16th Annual Great Nottingham Inclosure Walk

The 2018 Inclosure Walk on Sunday 1st July 2018 will start near Wilford Toll Bridge, at 1.30pm. Meet at the Meadows Embankment tram stop, Clifton Line.

The walk will be led by JOHN PARKER, Chair of NOTTINGHAMSHIRE LOCAL HISTORY ASSOCIATION

This walk goes through all the Recreation Grounds allotted to the townsfolk when their commonable Fields and Meadows were enclosed to give more space for desperately needed housing. No other town in Britain has anything like it.

Much of this ground was laid out as walks but there was also recognition that cricket and other team games and events needed to be catered for as well as play-space; the regular Sunday walks of the family were just as important for the Town's health.

The walk finishes at the Inclosure Oaks, (yes, there are now two), on the Forest, where a certificate will be presented to those completing the route.

Guides will be available to buy on the day, or from the tourist centre, for your future use. The Forest cafe will be open at the end, highly recommended.

EAST MIDLANDS HISTORY AND HERITAGE

Write for us: Share your stories about the local consequences of the Great War

The January 2019 'bumper' edition of East Midlands History and Heritage will be dedicated to the centenary of the end of the Great War. To remember and reflect on the days, months and years after November 1918, we would like you to share your stories and pictures with us.

We are particularly interested in the lasting consequences of the war on the local life in villages, towns and cities across our region.

- Did the Armistice raise expectations for a better tomorrow?
- How did communities choose to commemorate?
- What were the lasting social, physical, and mental impacts on families and individuals?

Articles should normally be around 1000-2000 words long, with a strong local/regional connection. We'd like contributions by 15th November 2018. For more information contact:

Prison History

Prison History is a database which contains information on nearly 850 penal institutions which existed in 19th century England, including around 420 local prisons and 380 lock ups. For each institution, there is information about its operational dates, jurisdiction, location, population statistics, the primary and secondary sources which mention it, and a list of all the relevant and surviving archival documents which we have been able to find in repositories based in England.

On accessing Prison History, users can either search for specific prisons or various types of prisons, or browse the lists of archival materials. One of the core aims of Prison History is to emphasise the importance of the local prison (and lock ups) in nineteenth-century society. It is an institution that has been largely neglected in the major studies of nineteenth-century imprisonment and it is time to redress the imbalance. The hope is that Prison History will be a useful resource for local historians, and also that local historians will want to get involved with this project, to help make the database an even better tool for local history, and, through emphasising the importance of prisons within nineteenth-century communities, to demonstrate the importance of local history research.

ANGEL ROW HISTORY FORUM

Chilwell Blast 1 July 1918

The Chilwell Disaster 1918, Alan Dance

Join us on Tuesday 14th August 2018 10.00 to 12.00 at 1st Floor Central Library, Angel Row, Nottingham for a talk on the Chilwell Munitions Factory and the Explosion of 1918 with Alan Dance, local historian and author of "Canary Child" and "Narrow Marsh"

The Chilwell ammunition factory was the country's most productive shell filling factory during the First World War. It was set up by Viscount Chetwynd in 1915 to try and counter the superior German firepower in the trench warfare. He chose a site near Nottingham that was flat with good road and rail links, but also in a dip to shield any explosions. During the course of the war, the Chilwell factory supplied over half the shells fired, including most of those used in the battle of the Somme.

10,000 people worked in the Chilwell munitions factory including many women. They were known as the Canary Girls who often worked up to 12 hour shifts for 30 shillings a week.

In July 1918 there was a devastating explosion in the mixing plant at Chilwell. 134 people died and 250 were injured by the blast that flattened much around the site.

Following tea/coffee from 10.00 the talk will start at 10.30

You can pre-register in person at the Local Studies Library, phone 0115 9152870, or by email to:

News and Events

We are happy to publish any news or events, from individuals or groups, regardless of whether or not they are NLHA members, as long as the topic relates to Nottinghamshire local history. Please send material by email to chairman@nlha.org.uk.

You can still access the news and events on our webpage at:

nlha.org.uk

I am happy to post news and events to the webpage at any time but if you want them to appear in the newsletter than I need to have them by the last week-end of the previous month.
