Romantic Facts and Fantasies: Culture and Heritage of the Romantic Age, c. 1780-1840

The exhibition runs from Friday 10 May – Sunday 25 August at The Weston Gallery, Lakeside Arts, University of Nottingham

The exhibition brings together materials from Manuscripts and Special Collections across the East Midlands, showing how the facts and the fantasies of the Romantic period could encompass the global, the national and the local, the very large and the microscopic. It reveals that male and female Romantic writers and artists were fearless in their engagement with the major issues that confronted them, issues that still resonate with us today. Alongside materials from our own collections we are also presenting exciting art and artefacts on loan from local museums, such as Derby Museums and Newstead Abbey. One loan item of particular interest is the painting by Joseph Wright of Derby, A Cottage on Fire, which we are showing courtesy of Derby Museums.

Mods Shaping a Generation

A major exhibition at Leicester's New Walk Museum and Art Gallery (April 12th – June 30th) includes ephemera, costumes and art from the Mod scene. The exhibition is curated and designed by social history author Shaun Knapp based around his latest book, Mods: Two City Connection, and Joe Nixon, co-founder of Arch Creative. It includes eyewitness accounts and photographs from Leicester and Nottingham Mods, which have never been seen or heard before.

The costumes – as well as original 1960s clothing – are provided by designer Roger K Burton. One of the most established and well-known costume designers in the UK, Roger K Burton has worked in music videos, television, films and commercials since the late 1970s: he has dressed hundreds of influential artists and bands, from David Bowie to The Rolling Stones. With over 50 years' experience of collecting vintage street fashion, Roger, an author and former Leicester Mod, started out supplying original clothing to cult films such as Quadrophenia and Absolute Beginners, and now hires original street fashion to TV and film.

The exhibition also features input from Alan Fletcher, the author who wrote Quadrophenia (the novel) and was a story consultant on Quadrophenia (the film). Alan also wrote The Mod Crop Trilogy, a trio of books based on his life as a Mod in Nottinghamshire during the 1960s.
