Wymeswold Airfield in the 1950s and 1960s

Although not strictly a Wolds Heritage Organisation publication, the WHO web site is hosting a remarkable new free PDF.

This is a detailed history of activities at Wymeswold airfield in the 1950s and 1960s which has been prepared by Richard Knight, who grew up at the western end of the runways.

Most of the information is about the activities of the RAF and Fields Aircraft Services, although there is also lots of previously unseen photographs taken in the winter of 1944 and during the build up to D-Day; and photographs taken during public open days.

In total there is about 40,000 words and almost 400 photographs. And this is available as a free PDF www.hoap.co.uk/who/rafi_wymeswold.pdf Note this is about 97 Mbytes so may be slow to download.

Bombs to Butterflies: From Ruddington Depot to Rushcliffe Country Park

John Player & Sons - friends of cricket?

2019 marks the 50th anniversary of Sunday League cricket, which for the first 18 years was sponsored by John Player & Sons.

We would like to celebrate this milestone by remembering the various links between one of Nottingham's biggest employers and the sport of cricket in general – and we'd like you to get involved:

- Did you play cricket for any of the John Player teams, or in any of the company's competitions?
- Did you play against Players, at their company sports ground on Aspley Lane?
- Did you watch any Nottinghamshire matches or benefit matches at "Players' Rec"?
- Have you got any John Player cigarette cards featuring famous cricketers?
- Did you go to any Sunday League matches at Trent Bridge during the 'John Player era'?

If you have any memories you'd like to share, or any photographs, scorecards or other memorabilia that we could see, we'd really like to hear from you!

Please email your name and phone numbers to heritage@nottsccc.co.uk and we'll contact you for more information.

Thank you for your interest, and your help!

AUTUMN DAY SCHOOL 2019 'HISTORIC AND SUSTAINABLE TRANSPORT'

Historians agree that the development of transport modes has been identified with new sources of power and energy – coal for the steam age, for example, oil for the era of the internal combustion engine.

The major period of expansion in the UK's railways system occurred in the half-century between the 1840s and the 1890s. The majority of the railway network was established by the 1870s; the last mainline to London, the Great Central Railway from Sheffield via Nottingham, was opened in 1899.

Frequently neglected as a mode of transport, walking remained the commonest form of mobility throughout the last century. It was the most common form of getting to work and it remained the main means of commuting for one-third to one-fifth of the population in smaller towns and cities as late as the 1970s.

Cycling developed in the late nineteenth century, primarily as a leisure pursuit. Although initially pursued by the well-to-do, it was quickly taken up by the better-off working class.
